THE PRODUCTION

"If man sends another Voyager to the distant stars and it can carry only one film on board," says Roger Ebert, "that film might be BARAKA. It uses no language, so needs no translation. It speaks in magnificent images, natural sounds, and music both composed and discovered. It regards our planet and the life upon it. It stands outside of historical time. To another race, it would communicate: This is what you would see if you came here." Shot over the course of 14 months in 24 countries on 6 continents, BARAKA is the true pinnacle of global filmmaking. Click on any location to reveal the city, country and unforgettable images that comprise the most acclaimed Blu-ray DVD of our time.

THE RESTORATION

"A TECHNOLOGICAL MARVEL..."

BARAKA Sets A New Standard On Blu-Ray Disc.
Home Media Magazine, 10/08

"The purpose of all the incredible technology used in the BARAKA restoration and Blu-ray was not for the sake of the technology itself, but to bring a greater emotional impact to the viewer" says producer Mark Magidson. "The 8k UltraDigital HD process allowed us to finally take full advantage of the 65mm negative we have. The complete restoration took over 16 months."

Most contemporary feature films scan and deliver at 2K resolution. Selected high-end restorations have scanned at 4K. But for the first time in history, a 65mm feature film camera negative was mastered at more than 8K (8192 pixels of resolution to be exact), creating a digital file in excess of an astounding 30 terabytes in size. This frame-by-frame scanning process - designed specifically for BARAKA by FotoKem Laboratories - has produced a detailed HD image unlike any ever seen. "This is the best and most advanced technology available in the world today," says DVD Restoration Producer Christopher Reyna. "We were able to repair damage that had occurred to the original negative whether it was during production in the Himalayas or in the jungles of Brazil, as well as in the lab over the years. The dynamic range, color saturation, sharpness and contrast ratio of BARAKA in the home environment now far exceeds anything in the industry. Nothing comes close." Additionally, the film's DTS-HD Master Audio 5.1 and Dolby Digital 5.1 audio restoration features music digitally remixed from the original 24 track elements by composer Michael Stearns.

Prior to bidding this project, Blinderman Construction Company aided the school district in providing pre-construction services that included a comprehensive budget. Schedules were designed to include an intricate phasing and implementation plan crucial to project success. Thorough pre-planning minimized unforeseen conditions and resulted in a phased renovation of six existing locker rooms, providing students, visiting teams and faculty with new state-of-the-art facilities.

Making Flexible Work Mainstream

Today, there are a lot of names for what happens when life meets work — sequencing, off-ramping, on-ramping, phased retirement — but no matter what you call it, the fact is that millions of people are seeking flexible work. People like you. You might even say it's a movement. We do.

At Life Meets Work, we are more than a website. With content geared toward your specific flexibility needs, we are:

- A clearinghouse for news and information on flexible work arrangements of all kinds.
- A sounding board and source of community for those seeking or managing flexible workplaces.
- A virtual job fair to connect workers with employers offering flexible work opportunities.

In short, we are dedicated to advancing flexible work options in America. We're here for you — and we welcome you to join us in our effort to make flexible work mainstream.

To get started, choose your professional priority.

Shifting Focus

You'd like more time to care for your family, get a degree, or pursue a personal goal, but you don't want to stop working entirely.

Employee poll

The New application tool has made a difference in the way we deal with the customers to solve their problem.

- ☐ More training is required to use it.
- ☐ I find the new application effective in terms of finding information
- ☐ I don't like the new application as it is not to the point.

Q + A

Question:

Why haven't we received any performance results from CE 11? The scores are important in the curriculum for Customer Engagement Training and the scores are required on the nonexempt PE. It's been several months since the PE has changed to include CE 11 scores and we have not heard anything.

HOW2BEFUNNY

*cause you're not.

Drian, Jeremy

Let's get started, shall we? You're probably here for one of two reasons.

Either Reason #1 You're truly not funny and you really do want help being funny around significant others, friends and coworkers in all of life's little situations. (And that's pretty sad.)

Or Reason #2 You're here because you yourself think you're rather entertaining and want to see how funny we're not in order to gain a little more confidence in this thing you consider a life. (Good luck with that one.)

We ask you to please sit back, watch, pay attention and learn because, people, being funny is something that should be taken very, very seriously. Boys and girls? Class is now in session.

Vision

Welcome to the It's YOU behind the CardSM website! This vision is designed to celebrate the Customer Service and Banking (CSB) employee and recognize the important role that each person plays in building relationships with Discover Card Customers. To many Customers, the people in CSB, with whom they have direct contact, define how they feel about their Discover Card.

This is not just a campaign, or a "one hit wonder" program. It is a long-term vision that will fuel an ultimate change in our corporate culture. This change will take time and we must ensure that every communication to each employee, whether it is an email, a poster or a printed piece, is strategically thought out and unified in design and messaging.

Clementine teaches at the French school in Bucharest. Lucas is a novelist. The young couple lives happily in a large house tucked away in the middle of a forest.

But tonight, their lives will be turned upside down.

They don't know it yet but they're being spied upon, they're being surrounded. When night falls, Clementine and Lucas will come up against THEM.

They are there, they are everywhere, they are even in their home...Who are they? What do they want? The answers will take them to the very limits of fear itself.

Insulate or Repair Frozen Pipes

print | email

Frozen pipes that burst can cause extensive damage to your home. Insulating pipes that are exposed to below-freezing temperatures is perhaps the easiest and least expensive do-it-yourself project to prevent damage in your home during chilly months.

Follow the simple steps below and consult the experts at your local True Value store for additional advice.

Insulating Pipes
Thawing/Repairing Frozen Pipes

Insulating Pipes

Adding insulation around accessible water pipes will save you energy, decrease your heating bills, prevent pipes from freezing during the winter months and reduce condensation and water damage.

Step 1. Locate Problem Areas

Look for water pipes that pass through unconditioned spaces prone to cold air, such as crawl spaces, garages, and attics. Check the pipe leading directly from the hot-water heater.

Step 2. Measure the Pipe

Before you insulate, measure the outside diameter and length of each section of pipe. Don't ignore hot-water lines, which freeze slower than cold-water lines but are more likely to burst. Total the lengths for each size, adding about 10% more for waste.

Helpful Tip:

Sometimes it's hard to eyeball the diameter of a pipe by simply holding a rule up to it. Take two short boards and place them across each side of the pipe. Adjust the boards until they look parallel to each other, and measure the gap between them near the pipe. You could also measure the circumference with a cloth tape measure and divide it by 3.14 to determine the diameter.

< back to top

Step 3. Select the Insulation

You can purchase various types of pipe insulation kits at your local True Value store. Make sure whatever kit you choose includes adhesive tape or contact cement for sealing. The most widely available
